

Technicality Is Used to Block Rights Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Southern Democrat today blocked a move to force the Eisenhower administration's seven-point civil rights legislation out of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

A motion to report the bill to the Senate was made by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY)—but not until the Senate itself was already in session.

Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) objected that the motion was out of order since the committee did not have permission to be sitting while the Senate was meeting.

Johnson's point was upheld by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss), the committee chairman.

It was just another bit of jockeying over the whole civil rights issue which has the Senate embroiled in controversy.

Across the Capitol, meantime the House Rules Committee resumed hearings on a relatively mild civil rights bill. Rep. William M. Tucker (D-Va.) took the witness chair to declare there is no need for any legislation.

Tucker, a former governor, said 100,000 Negroes are qualified to vote in Virginia and no effort is made to prevent them from voting.

The relationship between white people and Negroes in Virginia he said, is good.

"Just let us alone," he added.

Despite the absence of a bill as such, the civil rights issue is on the Senate floor through proposed

City Park Swim Pool Work Will Start Soon

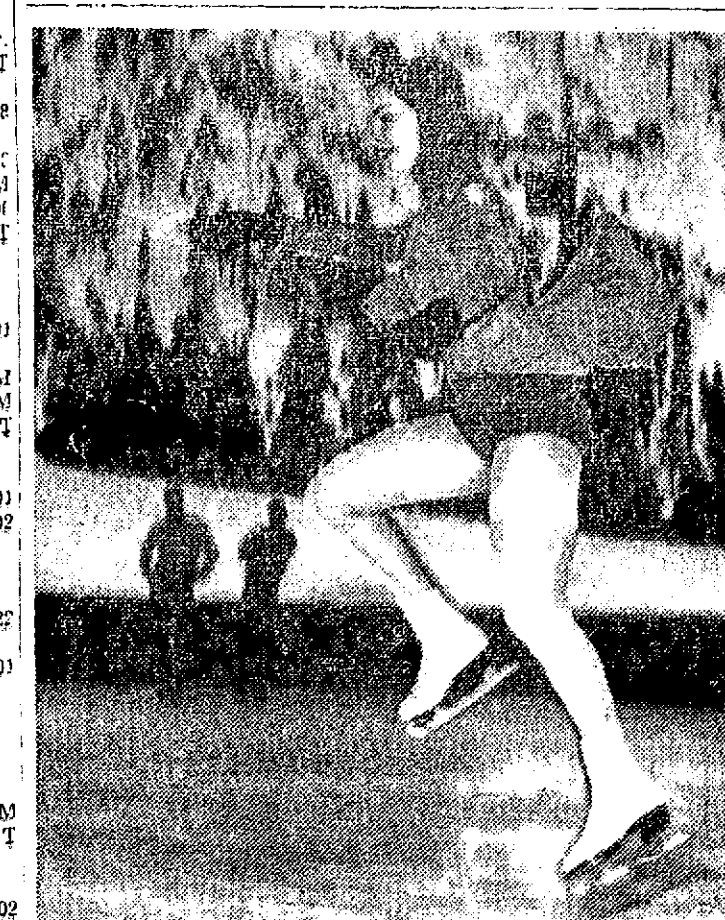

Actual construction of a swimming pool for Negroes at City Park will probably get underway within the next two weeks. Contract has been awarded to Wade White Concrete Co. of Magnolia for a total of $19,000.

City Manager Garland Medders said this did not include bathrooms but did include considerable repair work on the Fair Park Pool. The pool will be ready for use by the time school is out he said.

Some additional piping will be installed by the city to insure ample water supply and additional street lights along the route to the pool and inside the park will be installed. Through cooperation of the County Judge, roads to the park will be improved.

In action last night at the regular Board of Directors meeting, T. S. Cornelius, Al Page, Mrs. Charles Graham and Bill Rounton were named to the City Planning Board.

Ralph Lehman and Bill Rounton of the Hempstead Health Center Building Committee appeared before the group to get a commitment from the City for its share of the joint County-City project.

Has Solution to Blackbird Problem

STUTTGART, Ark. (AP)—Thad McCollum of Stuttgart came up today with his own solution for the blackbird problem.

"Let's make them game birds put a bag limit on them and hunters will take care of the situation," McCollum said.

"Blackbirds plague rice farmers and other planters and are blamed for huge crop losses annually," McCollum said.

McCollum is a veteran sportsman and a founder of the annual world's Championship Duck Calling Contest here.

McCollum said that blackbirds are a delicacy in many parts of the world, including England.

With other game birds and animals getting scarce and with increased hunting pressure, it's time to add blackbirds to the game field, McCollum said.

He said that while a bag limit might not be necessary at first, "the ginning pressure after hunters find the birds palatable would become so great, a limit would be required."

Collector at Spa Pays Back $11,616

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Resigned Tax Collector Ray Owen today paid $11,616 to Garland County.

That was the amount he was charged with embezzling in an indictment returned by the Grand Jury last Saturday.

Owen made no statement, but his attorney, G. Byrum Hurst said the former official is innocent of the embezzlement count and other charges against him.

Owen paid the money, Hurst said, pending final settlement of the case.

The attorney added that both he and Owen were confident the money would be returned after Owen's innocence was established.

Hurst said Owen insisted on the payment.

Owen was indicted and furnished bond on counts of embezzlement, taking or destroying public records and misuse of public funds.

Africa Is Topic of Church Meet

Mrs. Lamar Williamson of Monticello was the outstanding speaker Monday at First Methodist Church for the opening of the study on Africa by the women of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches.

Mrs. Williamson gave a lecture on the Belgian Congo, illustrated with colored slides and tape recorded music and words from natives of that country and from Lamar Williamson Jr., who is now in the mission field there.

For the occasion Mrs. Williamson wore a native dress and head scarf, and she also had several displays of native art.

This first in the series of four meetings to be held jointly by the Methodist and Presbyterian women began with a pollack luncheon served in the basement of the church. About 50 ladies attended. The invocation was given before the meal by Mrs. Rufus Sorrells.

After lunch Mrs. Sorrells introduced Mrs. Edwin Ward, president of the WSCS who gave a short message of welcome. A devotional was presented by Mrs. Dorsey McRae and the program chairman, Mrs. J. W. Branch, introduced the guest speaker.

The second session was held from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Tuesday at the Presbyterian Church, where the Wednesday meeting will also be held from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Thursday, the final meeting will be at the Methodist Church from 1:30 to 3 p.m. The nursery at the Methodist Church is open each day for babies of mothers wishing to attend the meetings.

He is survived by two sons, Lee and Vernon Arnold of DeAnn; three daughters, Lorena Arnold of DeAnn, Mrs. Noel O'Steen of Magnolia and Mrs. John Burke of DeAnn.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at DeAnn Baptist Church by the Rev. E. Mooney Burial by Herndon-Cornelius will be in DeAnn Cemetery.

Paper Mill to Locate Near Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP)—Speculation about a major industry to locate here culminated Monday in the announcement of plans for a 60-million dollar pulp and paper mill.

The Anglo-Southern Paper Corp. said it had acquired land for the mill about eight miles northwest of Texarkana, which is on the Texas-Arkansas border.

Some land is still being acquired, the firm said, and construction plans will not be announced until this is completed. There was no statement on how many employees the mill will require.

The plans were announced jointly by Texas Gov. Price Daniel, Elliot M. Little, chairman of the Anglo-Southern Board, and Josh R. Morris Sr., of the Texarkana Chamber of Commerce industrial committee.

The Texarkana Daily News published an extra with the announcement, its first such edition since the end of World War II.

Anglo-Southern said it had been investigating the Texarkana area for several years. Although rumor for several years, there had been no hint of its nature prior to Monday's announcement.

"The announcement said the plant will be 'an integrated pulp and newsprint mill that will probably cost in excess of 60 million dollars.'"

Anglo-Southern is associated with Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills, Ltd., which operates a newsprint mill in Quebec and a Kraft pulp, paper and paper board mill at Dryden, Ontario, both in Canada.

The announcement said the firm had studied the area's timber resources, labor supply, fuel and power costs, water supply and other factors before deciding to locate here.

A reservoir will be built on Barkman Creek to provide water supply and a five-mile railroad spur will be built to connect with Texas and Pacific Railroad tracks near Nash, Tex., the announcement said. It said land is being acquired along Barkman Creek.

Woman Dies in a Freak Accident

ROLAND, Okla. (AP)—A woman driver was killed today in a freak highway smash-up caused by ice on a bridge near here.

Police said Miss Gladys Lee 46, of Roland, was crushed against her automobile by a skidding truck as she stood beside the car.

Miss Lee's car had gone out of control on an ice-coated bridge on U. S. Highway 64 just west of nearby Mottet, Okla. Her auto sideswiped a truck driven by Herman Woods of Fort Smith, Ark.

Oklahoma State Trooper Clarence Anderson said Miss Lee and Woods got out of their vehicles to discuss the collision. Then a truck driven by Clyde Curry of Fort Smith approached.

The trooper said Curry fought to stop but his wheels skidded on the ice. His truck pinned Miss Lee against her car, killing her instantly.

The pile-up blocked traffic on both sides of the bridge temporarily. Several other minor collisions were caused by drivers trying to brake on the icy highway near the wreck scene.

Adults Dined at Baptist Church Affair

The First Baptist Church Banquet for adults was held at the church Saturday night. The affair was arranged by Chairman Leon Davis, training union director.

For having been married 36 years, the longest of any couple attending, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thrash were crowned King and Queen of the adult dinner. There was a total of 476 married years for all couples.

Gilbert Thomas was master of ceremonies and special music was given by a quartet consisting of Hendrix Spragins, Orville Taylor, Gilbert Thomas and Andy Andrews.

Mrs. Charles Reynerson directed games and Guy Grigg led group singing.

Snow Quits, No More Seen for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow which fell over most of Arkansas yesterday ended last night and no more was expected today.

The snow was heaviest in west and northwest Arkansas, ranging up to five inches on the ground at some points.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said almost all the state had a trace or more of snow.

The only area to escape was a 40-to-60 mile-wide stretch along the Mississippi River.

Some schools remained closed or dismissed early yesterday in the heavy snow area, but most reopened today.

For a time Highway 23 south of Ozark was closed because of the snow, but State Police reported all state roads open this morning.

The fall in the Fort Smith area and eastward to the vicinity of Paris and Clarksville in the west central part of the state was greater than in extreme northwest Arkansas, which usually bears the brunt of the state's snowfalls.

The Weather Bureau said five inches of snow was on the ground at Fort Smith.

Similar heavy falls were reported from the Paris and Clarksville area.

Faubus Is Lashed by a Negro Leader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Negro political leader today criticized Gov. Orval E. Faubus for implying that integrationists might have touched off a dynamite blast at the home of a Negro student.

I. S. McClinton president of the Arkansas Democratic (Negro) Voters Assn., said "stunning remarks coming from the highest office of state" would encourage lawlessness.

Faubus yesterday termed the bombing at the home of Carlotta Walls "regrettable" and implied that integrationists should not look the possibility that pro-segregation forces set the blast.

The explosion a week ago caused minor damage at the home of the 16-year-old Walls girl, a student at integrated Central High School. No one was hurt.

McClinton said as long as the people of Little Rock heard statements from the chief executive "talking sides in ugly conduct with hoodlums and even extreme segregationists, this will encourage resistance to law and order."

The Negro leader also said Arkansas will not only continue to lose industry but to lose civic pride and respect from the other part of the country, and the diplomatic dignity of this country will continue at an all-time low.

Faubus had said that if segregationists had not set the fire...

Congress Told Cash for Arms, Economic Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today for $4,175,000,000 in new foreign aid funds to safeguard the free world against the "enormous power bloc of Communist imperialism."

"The mutual security program is essential to world progress in freedom, he said in a special message to Congress.

The sum, nearly billion dollars more than Congress voted last year, would be split up in this way: Two billion dollars for weapons aid to allies and $2,175,000,000 for economic and technical assistance.

In appealing to the legislators to avoid drastic cuts in the program, Eisenhower mentioned his 11-nation December goodwill tour to Asia, the Middle East and Europe.

"My recent travels impressed upon me even more strongly the fact that free men everywhere look to us, not with envy or malice but with hope and confidence that we will in the future, as in the past, be in the vanguard of those who believe in and will defend the right of the individual to enjoy the fruits of his labor in peace and in freedom," he said.

Eisenhower said that without the billions in foreign aid voted by Congress in the past 14 years "the map of the world would be vastly different today because of communism's continuing threat."

"The Soviet Union expressed an interest in measures to reduce the dangers of war during the past year," Eisenhower said.

"While its recent deportments, and pronouncements suggest the possible opening of a somewhat less strained period in our relationships, the menace of Communist imperialism nevertheless still remains," he added.

The military power of the Soviet Union continues to grow. Increasingly important to free-world interests is the rate of growth of both military and economic power in Communist China. "Evidence that this enormous bloc remains dedicated to the extension of Communist control over all people everywhere is found in Tibet, the Taiwan Straits, in Laos and along the Indian border."

Eisenhower's foreign aid message came earlier than usual this year. The shift represents an administration effort to get the program passed quickly.

Lions Told of Local Bakery Operation

Charlie Meyer Jr., president and general manager, and a principal stockholder of Meyer Bakery of Arkansas, was the guest speaker of the Hope Lions Club Monday, Feb. 15.

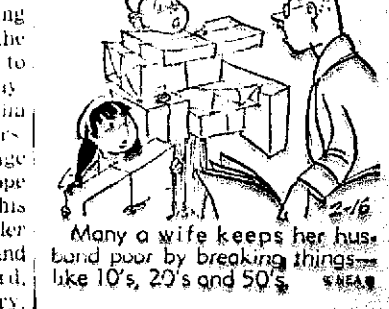

Mr. Meyer gave a brief rundown on the local Meyer Bakery, pointing out that it employs 70 workers, has an annual payroll of approximately a quarter million dollars and provides Brown's Serve Rolls to an area covering several states.

The remainder of the talk was a discussion of the importance of management in any business. Lion Fred Mathenia, manager of the local Meyers plant, introduced Mr. Meyer.

Prior to Mr. Meyer's talk, club members and guests were entertained by a quartet consisting of Gilbert Thomas, Andy Andrews, Orval Taylor and Fred Holder. All members of the club.

Guests at the meeting included Frank McElroy, Joe Smith, R. H. Watson, Bill Duckett Jr., Robert Robnett and Termin Allison.

Steps Taken to Correct AFB Sewage

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Jacksonville city official says steps are being taken to correct a Little Rock Air Force Base sewage problem which is blamed for pollution of Big Bayou Meto.

Water Supt. red Bowen said the problem resulted because the city of Jacksonville, which has a contract to provide sewage treatment facilities for the base, understood 400 housing units would be built at the base but instead 1,535 were constructed.

"It's just an overloaded condition," Bowen said. "The plant capacity is just not big enough for the load that it has."

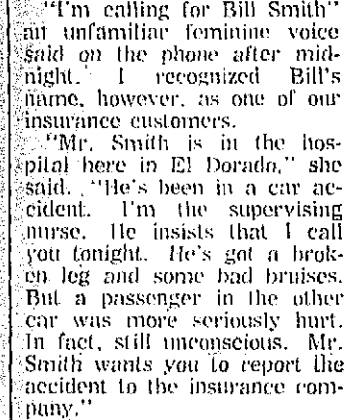

He said part of the money needed to expand the plant is available.

More than 400 residents of the Bayou Meto area complained of the pollution Saturday in a telegram to Rep. W. F. Norrell (D-Ark). They asked Norrell to try to do something to correct the situation if the air base is contributing to pollution of the bayou.

Air base officials said they were not aware of any problem. A spokesman said the base has a contract with Jacksonville to cover 600,000 gallons of sewage a day and he did not know of that figure being exceeded.

Wood said Jacksonville is making preliminary plans to expand its sewage treatment facilities.

"Mr. Smith is in the hospital here in El Dorado," she said. "He's been in a car accident. I'm the supervising nurse. He insists that I call you tonight. He's got a broken leg and some bad bruises. But a passenger in the other car was more seriously hurt. In fact, still unconscious. Mr. Smith wants you to report the accident to the insurance company."

"I'm sorry to hear about the accident," I said. "But can you give me a few more particulars? Where it happened? When? How? Who owns the other car and who was driving?" etc.

"Mr. Smith said you'd ask for the details. Hold on a minute and I'll get the answers." She did and reported back.

"Tell Bill not to worry," I said. "Just to get well. I'll take over right away."

We did — the claim was reported promptly and a satisfactory settlement followed — just as readily as if the accident were in our own backyard.

Payola Probe Calls Record Distributors

WASHINGTON (AP) — House payola probes today called record distributors, a government auditor and a musicianly inclined deputy sheriff for questioning about radio-TV disc jockey programs.

As hearings resumed Monday the testimony about payments led, Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark) of the investigating House subcommittee to appeal for federal action to "protect the American people from this rotten stuff." He called it "commercial bribery" to get records on the air.

Cecil Steen, a Boston distributor testified he paid $100 a week to have a disc featured as the "Gold Platter" on Boston radio station WMEX. Steen also said he had handed out more than $2,000 to disc jockeys in the last few years.

Two WMEX record spinners said they had been the beneficiaries of payments from record suppliers. Arnie (Woo Woo) Ginsburg acknowledged receiving $4,400 in less than three years while spinning tunes on WMEX and WBOS in Boston. Mel Miller, another deejay who also serves as program director for WMEX said he accepted gifts totaling $425.

Each insisted he was not swayed by the gratuities in picking out records for the shows.

On tap for questioning today were Harry Carter, president and treasurer of Music Suppliers, Inc. and other officials of the distributing firm, as well as auditor

Officials Appear Before Spa Jury

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Two civic officials are scheduled to appear before the Law Enforcement Committee of the Garland County Grand Jury today.

Mayor Dan Wold and Municipal Judge M. C. Lewis Jr. got subpoenas to report to the committee in an apparent new phase of a current jury investigation.

Howard Sublett, chairman of the jury's City-County Finances Committee, said yesterday his group will investigate the county judge's office and the county Road Department.

Last week the jury wound up a lengthy probe of the affairs of former county Tax Collector Ray Owen by returning eight indictments. Owen was charged with embezzlement, taking or destroy public funds. Four other persons were charged in connection with alleged irregularities in his office.

The Negro Branch Normal College was authorized by the 1873 General Assembly and two years later, J. C. Corbin taught the first class — seven students — in a rented building at Pine Bluff.

Carter and Music Suppliers came into the proceedings Monday when subcommittee counsel Robert W. Lishman mentioned the company as a benefactor of Ginsburg and Miller.

Mississippi Valley Hit by Snow, Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wet weather, with snow and rain, spread across the lower Mississippi Valley and lower Ohio Valley today as cleanup operations continued in snow-stricken areas in the East and South.

A snowstorm which swept across sections of the southern Plains spread into Arkansas and hit areas in southern Illinois, parts of Kentucky and Tennessee. The storm, which left a covering of nine inches on parts of Oklahoma, was expected to dump from two to four inches in Kentucky and Tennessee.

Southeast Kentucky was hard hit by the weekend snowstorm which raked wide areas in the South and East. Mountain areas were blanketed with heavy snow and most schools in eastern Kentucky remained closed.

The weekend storm death toll in Kentucky mounted to five Monday when the bodies of an elderly brother and sister were found in a cabin near Glasgow. Doctors said both probably froze to death.

Belated reports across the storm belt, hit by gale-force winds, snow and sleet, showed at least 54 deaths attributed to the weekend stormy weather, which was winter's worst in many areas. Pennsylvania reported the most deaths, 15, including a 7-year boy whose sled crashed into a stone house in Philadelphia. An estimated 100 children were injured in sledding accidents in Pennsylvania in two days.

Temperatures were higher than 24 hours earlier in most parts of the country. The 30s were the rule in interior sections and the 40s and 50s along the West Coast and in Florida. Sub-zero marks in Michigan were replaced by temperatures in the 20s.

Argentine Navy Insists Sub Is Real

By BRIAN BELL

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine navy insisted today it is still chasing a submarine in the Golfo Nuevo. A skeptical public came up with a multitude of theories in the absence of a capture and there was growing belief the sub had escaped.

Speculation varied widely as to the identity of the phantom visitor pursued in the 40-by-20-mile gulf on the south Argentine coast for 18 days. Here are a few guesses voiced by the man in the street:

1. A Soviet sub scouting Argentine naval bases in case of war with the United States and a need to invade South America. Argentina maintains a base at Puerto Madryn, at the head of the gulf.
2. A U.S. sub trying to impress Argentina she is defenseless against underwater attack and should sign a mutual defense pact with the United States.
3. A smuggling ring's craft transporting American cigarettes, whisky and ball point pens.
4. The sub is carrying high Nazis — perhaps Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun — who have been hiding on a desert island since World War II.
5. A Soviet sub landing agents to assassinate President Eisenhower on his coming trip to Argentina.

The navy still insisted there was a strange submarine in the gulf 650 miles southwest of Buenos Aires and claimed its ships and planes were continuing the campaign to bring the intruder to the surface.

Two days ago the Navy Ministry promised the phantom sub would be captured or sunk "within a matter of hours." Monday defense minister Justo Villar admitted it was possible the intruder had slipped out of the gulf despite a navy blockade patrol across the 10-mile-wide mouth.

A feeling began to spread that there may never have been a submarine there in the first place.

Fate of Four Now Up to U. S. Court

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The fate of four young Negroes convicted of slaying an elderly white man may hang on a habeas corpus hearing in federal District Court today.

Federal Judge J. Smith Henley called the hearing yesterday. Last Thursday he postponed the election of Rogers, Boone and James Moore after their attorney filed a petition for writ of Habeas corpus.

If the writ is granted today, Moore and Boone would be retried in Miller Circuit Court for the 1956 slaying of M. R. Hamm, 76, near Texarkana. Hamm was beaten to death and robbed of $10.

Two other Negroes under death sentence for the same crime Willie Byrd and James Boyd might receive stays of execution if Boone and Moore are granted a writ.

Boyd and Byrd are scheduled to die in the state's electric chair at dawn Friday. Their attorney Harold Flowers of Pine Bluff, has indicated he will ask the Arkansas Supreme Court or the governor's office for a stay of execution.

The case is long and involved. The Negroes' first conviction was overturned by the Arkansas Supreme Court. They were retried and the Supreme Court upheld the conviction.

Judge to Hear Sentence Appeal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—Circuit Judge Gus W. Jones today hears a motion of Lonnie B. Mitchell to set aside his death sentence for rape.

Mitchell, a Negro, was convicted of raping a 77-year-old white woman on March 9, 1959.

Thad D. Williams, Little Rock attorney, filed the motion for Mitchell.

He contended Mitchell was insane at time of the crime, and was denied a mental examination before the trial.

He asked Jones to order one now.

Williams made several other assertions in behalf of Mitchell.

He said the defendant did not have adequate counsel before the trial, that a purported confession was obtained by threats and that Mitchell was denied equal protection of the laws on ground that Arkansas has a policy of not sentencing white men to death for rape.

Troubles Pile Upon Young N. Y. Heiress

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Troubles piled up today for a 17-year-old New York heiress who eloped with a delicatessen clerk last July.

Pretty Roberta Orr Brady of Southampton, L.I., faces a hearing on charges of stealing $3,400 from her mother to finance her honeymoon with Albert Edward Brady, 26, an $85-a-week clerk.

It developed her husband has been married once before—maybe twice—and is wanted in Houston, Tex., on an auto theft charge. He also is charged with abducting Roberta, who expects a child in three months.

"My sympathy goes out to her," said Brady's previous wife, the former Anna Jewell Eures of Houston. "I feel so sorry for her."

Roberta, located here Saturday by the FBI, is the daughter of the late Robert Orr, an advertising executive. Her mother now is married to an exiled Persian prince, Rokneddin Kadar.

The Houston woman's divorce from Brady became final last September, she said.

She said Brady almost cleaned out their bank account and wrote a number of worthless checks before he walked out on her in June 1958.

Roberta's family sent a lawyer to handle her case. He posted $500 bond and got her out of jail but declined to put up the $5,000 needed to release Brady.

Dark-haired Brady, left alone in jail, blurted a tale of woe.

He and Ronni—a nickname his wife prefers to Roberta—lost their Mississippi marriage certificate. They tried to get married again in Las Vegas but failed.

The FBI once arrested him for keeping a rental car for eight months.

The Navy discharged him claiming he was an accessory in a Boston car theft ring.

Why all the admissions? "Because the family would bring it out anyway to break us up. I admit I'm wrong and I'm sorry but I still want my life with Ronni."

And Ronni—who says one of her chums is Garfield Benedict, the other heiress who eloped against her family's wishes—insists she still wants her life with Albert.

"I'm very happy with my husband and we hope the baby is a boy."

he is hospitalized.

Mrs. Sarah Moses and Karen of Arkadelphia were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Moses.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Crutchfield of Camden were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Barr and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Kyler.

Janet McKenzie accompanied her father, Dr. Jim McKenzie, home from Memphis, this week-end and visited her family here.

Mrs. Owen Nix left Tuesday for Brighton, Mich. to visit the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Rodriguez and son, and to meet her new granddaughter.

The Rev. G. M. Petry, pastor of the Hope Church of the Nazarene, has returned from Lake Texoma where he attended an NYPS regional conference last week.

Miss Catherine DelVecchio has returned from Ft. Worth, where she attended a Southwest Optometric Assistants meeting this past weekend.

Don't Trouble Trouble Till Trouble Troubles You!

Dear Dorothy Dix:
Someone is always ready to jump down my throat, then I feel like a child being scolded. I like company but shake inside with the confusion of extra kiddies even though I have three of my own. Being the only sister-in-law among five sisters, I feel like an outcast.

My husband and I have worked and waited for what we got. I'm always there to put toward flowers or gifts for someone who is sick. But when I've been in the hospital, I receive no flowers or gifts from the family. What is wrong with me? — Depressed

Dear Depressed: You are super-sensitive. Stop feeling put-upon. Don't look for trouble but when it does come, meet it chin up head high. Those metals are stronger and finer which have been purified by fire. So it is with people. Live with every fibre of your being!

Dear Dorothy Dix:
I go with a woman I would like to marry but we do not see eye to eye about her two girls. The youngest is the worst. Her mother combs her hair, finds her clothes washes and dresses her. If I say anything, the mother gets annoyed. Her kids come first. I do not know what to do. — The Lonely One

Dear Lonely One: An indulgent mother and spoiled children are frustrating. The combination could be unbearable to a self-centered man. But if you were really in love, you would be more tolerant. This is a give-and-take world. The selfish walk a lonely road in life. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Is There a Test for Love."

Dear Dorothy Dix:
At first this boy and I didn't see each other often, then two months ago I started thinking about him an awful lot. His cousin asked me if I wanted him to ask me for a date. I said yes. Then this boy and I started going steady. He told me he loved me. I'm almost 16; he's almost 19. One night when we had a date, he came over after work at five. I was talking to another boy. My steady stayed a few minutes, then left and didn't show up for our date. He still speaks and once when he passed me on the street he waved, then came back and asked if I wanted a ride home. I told him "No, thank you. I'm not going home." I've hardly seen him since. How can I get

Silence on Missing Adolph Coors

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—The investigation of the disappearance of Adolph Coors III went on in official silence today.

The wealthy brewer and industrialist vanished 315 days ago on a rural road along the Rocky Mountain foothills.

The FBI has said only that its investigation is continuing. Sheriff Art Wormuth left his office here to attend a meeting with FBI officials Sunday night. He did not disclose the location or the purpose of the meeting.

Wormuth repeated his earlier belief that the millionaire chairman of the Adolph Coors Co. was kidnapped.

The Denver Post quoted an FBI official in Washington as saying that federal agents are working on this same presumption.

Coors, 44, vanished last Tuesday morning while delving to work from his foothills home.

His carry all type vehicle's engine running and the radio playing, was found abandoned on a wooden bridge south of here. Blood smears were found on the seat of the vehicle.

A woman who lives less than a quarter-mile from the bridge said she has told the FBI she heard a gunshot and loud voices from that direction the morning Coors disappeared.

Doctors Plan Final Exam for Queen

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's four doctors today were expected to give their royal patient a final examination before the birth of her third child.

It has been a week since the doctors visited the 33-year-old Queen at Buckingham Palace.

Since then she has taken a daily walk with her dogs through the wintry palace gardens, signed state papers and dealt with personal mail.

"The Queen is extremely well and leading a normal but quiet life," a palace spokesman reported Monday night.

Her physicians — Lord Evans, Sir John Weil, John H. Peel and Vernon Hall — have been on a standby alert since Monday.

"They were expected to advise the monarch today to move down from her apartments to the palace's Belgian suite, where the baby is to be born. Then it will be up to Sister Helen Rowe, the Queen's maternity nurse, to recall them when the birth is imminent.

That could be anytime this week, even as late as Saturday according to the palace.

Security measures were tightened at the palace.

St. Louis was incorporated as a city in 1822.

Drives Auto Into a Store Window

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Five-year-old Cynthia Versley, of Jacksonville drove her miniature, gasoline-powered car through the plate glass door of a variety store yesterday.

The car continued down an aisle but was caught by grown-ups. Cynthia suffered only lacerations.

Her father Air Force Maj. Clyde Versley, said she lost control of her car while driving around a shopping center parking lot with other children.

There are now about 100 brands of foreign automobiles sold in the United States.

Soph Is Leading Ohio State to Unbeaten Year

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Triggered by a decade of sophomores, Ohio State's Buckeyes are powering their way to ward what could be the first unbeaten season in Big Ten college basketball in 17 years.

The team is there could be a national championship at the end of the drive.

Fourth-rated nationally, Ohio State fired its 10th straight Big Ten victory, its 11th straight success and an over-all 18-2 record Monday night with a 100-41 rout of formidable Illinois (13-5). It was the first time an Ohio State team had managed to beat the Illini at Illinois since 1945 and again it was the three sophomores — 6-8 Jerry Lucas, 6-7 John Havlicek, and 6-2 Mel Nowell — who carried the brunt of the attack.

Lucas scored 31 points, Havlicek 29 and Nowell 17, accounting for 77 of the total that helped the Buckeyes retain their place as the top scoring major college team.

With a 10-0 record to 6-3 for runner-up Indiana, Ohio State has all but wrapped up its first conference championship since 1951 and the subsequent berth in the post-season NCAA tournament.

Colorado and Kansas State, in a pair of squeakers, remained tied for the Big Eight Conference lead. Auburn stayed on Georgia Tech's heels in the torrid Southeastern Conference race, and Ohio U. whipped Toledo 71-67 to take its disputed first place in the Mid American loop in other key Mid day games.

St. John's of New York, expected to be added to the National Invitation Tournament field today, ran its winning streak to nine for a 15-5 record by pasting CUNY, 93-67, and Xavier of Ohio 116-61, with an outside tournament chance, cuffed Marquette 78-75 in important non-conference play.

Colorado nipped Missouri 63-62 for a 7-2 Big Eight record matching Kansas State, which edged Iowa State 72-70 on Wally Frank's basket with 25 seconds left. Kansas stayed in Big Eight contention rolling to a 6-3 record as Wayne Hightower's free-throw after the final buzzer gave the Jayhawks a 54-53 victory over Oklahoma.

Auburn edged Tulane in overtime 63-61 for a 9-2 SEC record to 4-1 for idle Georgia Tech, while Mississippi State downed Florida 81-75, LSU spilled Alabama 66-63, and Mississippi nipped Georgia 66-63 in overtime in other SEC games.

Matthews and Hank Fight This Week

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Henry Hank, a Detroit middleweight with a good wallop and Lenny Matthews, a stiff punching Philadelphia lightweight, promise to provide most of the week's boxing action.

Hank, forced to stray out of his weight class to get action, boxes Sixto Rodriguez of Mountain View, Calif., on the Wednesday show at Chicago Stadium. Hank stopped Jesse Bowdrey Dec. 7 and repeated the job in six rounds Jan. 27 at Chicago.

The light-heavy rankings show Rodriguez either No. 4 (National Boxing Assn.) or No. 5 (Ring). In his last three, the Puerto Rican-born boxer drew with Von Clay, lost to Mike Holt in Johannesburg, South Africa and whipped Orlando Dipeolu.

The Hank-Rodriguez bout will be seen on ABC-TV.

Matthews, a one-round knockout winner over New York's Johnny Bussio, Feb. 1, is ranked among the leading lightweights. Ring has him No. 6, the NBA No. 7. The Bussio fight was his only 1959 start. Last year he won six of

Charlie Grimm Believes the Chicago Cubs Make the First Division, Possibly Win Flag

By CHARLIE GRIMM
Manager, Chicago Cubs

ROBERTSVILLE (AP)—I definitely believe that the Chicago Cubs will crash the first division, and if everything should break right for us, we could take it all. Yes, we can win the pennant, if the ball bounces right.

I don't forget that last year the Cubs better than broke even with the top three contenders — Los Angeles, San Francisco and Milwaukee.

If we could flatten the also-rans a little oftener and then do as well against the other contenders, why couldn't we be up there?

I am very satisfied with the deals made this winter. We had a very poor defensive outfield in 1959. In getting Richie Ashburn and Frank Thomas we have helped in both the offensive and defensive departments. Ashburn is a good leadoff man who gets on base often and Thomas, a power hitter, will team up well with Ernie Banks in the lead-off department.

With Ashburn and Tony Taylor leading off the batting order for us, we'll have a couple of pesky, get-on-base speed boys up there and we'll have some power behind them.

With George Altman, Banks and Thomas following them, Ashburn and Taylor will make it all the way home a lot faster.

Our infield, except for third base, is pretty well set. We have Dale Long and Dick Gernert at first. The departure of Alvin Dark leaves third base wide open. We might shift Taylor to third and play young Jerry Kindall at second. There's also the possibility that Earl Averil, who swings a big bat, can make it defensively at third.

If there is any department on the club that needs strengthening it would be a top starting pitcher. Potentially we have a fine staff but it could use more experience. Bob Anderson, Moe Drabowsky, Dick Drott and Glen Hobbie are all barely past voting age. Art Cavanelli and Seth Morehead should take care of the left-handed end. Dick Ellsworth, a newcomer, look good to me. So do several other young pitchers up from the minors. Don Elston and Al Schroll should be able to handle the bullpen.

I'm not concerned at all about the catching. Cal Neuman and Sammy Taylor did well last year and should do even better this year.

I'm not concerned at all about the catching. Cal Neuman and Sammy Taylor did well last year and should do even better this year.

There is no department on the club that needs strengthening it would be a top starting pitcher.

Potentially we have a fine staff but it could use more experience. Bob Anderson, Moe Drabowsky, Dick Drott and Glen Hobbie are all barely past voting age. Art Cavanelli and Seth Morehead should take care of the left-handed end. Dick Ellsworth, a newcomer, look good to me. So do several other young pitchers up from the minors. Don Elston and Al Schroll should be able to handle the bullpen.

Beautiful, sleek one-piece swim suits set the pace for 1960 resort wear and give a hint of what to expect on the beaches next summer. Sarong draping is used (left) in this floral Hawaiian print. Careful draping at the midriff creates the look of a tiny waist. The suit is completely lined, has elasticized inserts at the sides for perfect fit. A knitted swim suit (center) is done in a soft blue check. This is a contoured suit with built-in figure control, Y-neck and wide shoulder straps. It does one very essential thing: makes the most of a girl's figure. In the evening gown tradition is this suit (right) in faille and nylon tulle. It's shown here in black with color inserts of beige. These are all Jantzen designs for resort wear.

The perfect suit for the journey to a winter vacation spot is this wool knit in blue-and-white diamond plaid by Kimberly. The collar is matched to solid-color blouse and sleeve-trim. Her movie camera is brown with bright metal trim, has built-in electric eye.—By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor.

GADGETEER—Ernie Kovacs has brought push-button living to the edge of hysteria. Among his gadgets: A thing to clear the air of the ever-turking Kovacs cigars.

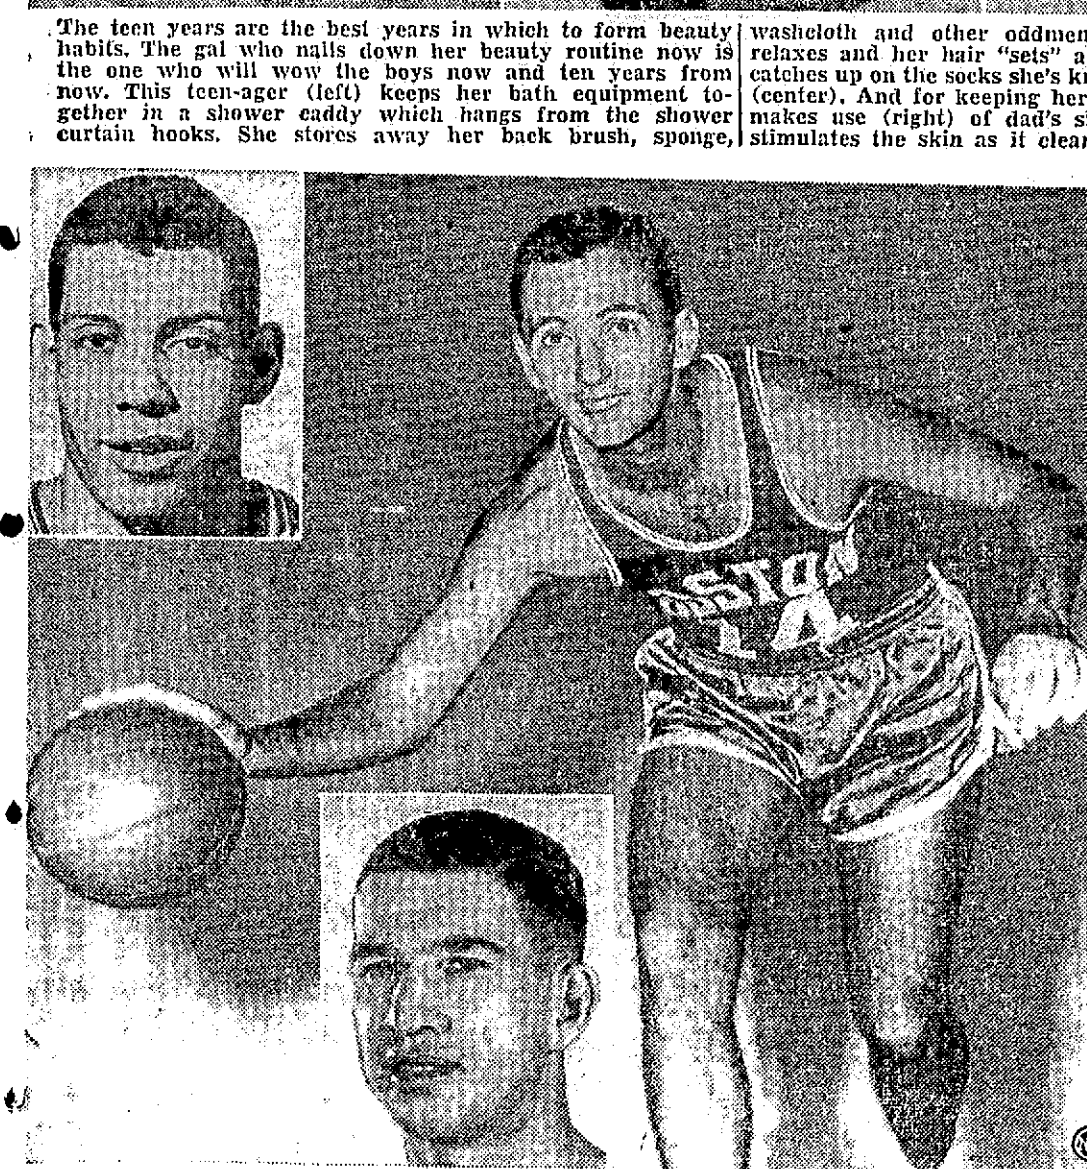

PROUD STEPPER—An indomitable spirit showing through his smile, John Kemp of Elsmere, N.D., doesn't let the fact that he was born without arms or legs keep him down. With his artificial limbs, 10-year-old Johnny can do almost anything a normal boy can. He's been chosen the 1960 Easter Seal child. This year's campaign to help crippled persons opens March 17 and runs to Easter Sunday, April 17.

HANDSOME 103—First he was a railroad master mechanic and then he became a doctor. From 1893 until 1953 he ministered the sick. After such a long, useful life it's no wonder that friends in Minneapolis inundated Dr. George D. Haggard with flowers on his 103rd birthday.

TOP MAN ON THE POLE—Husky Cherokee Indian artist Lelooska has his job cut out for him as he carves a totem pole near Portland, Ore. The 50-foot cedar log he's working on is 750 years old. Lelooska says Northwest Indians began totem making when white men first introduced metal tools.

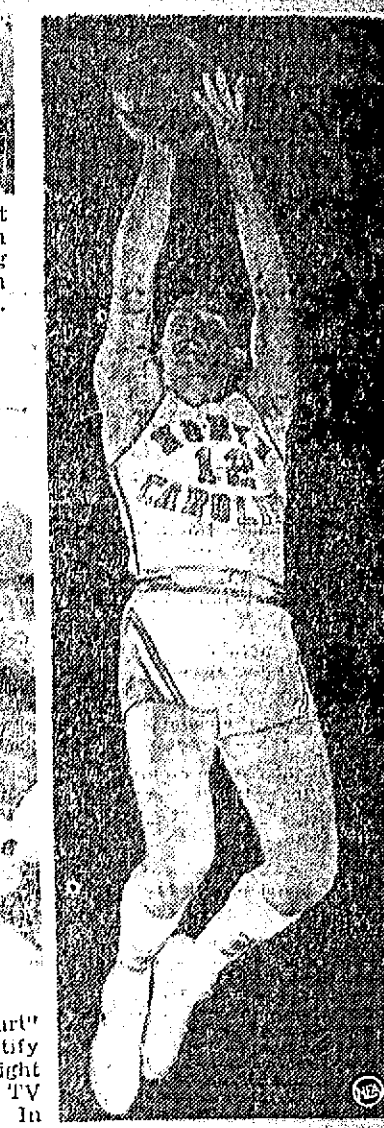

BIG ASSIST—While the scorers of the National Basketball Association get the big play, they still need the men to set them up—like this trio of NBA playmakers. Bob Cousy of Boston, big figure, is the perennial pro leader in assists, followed by Guy Rodgers of Philadelphia, inset above, and Larry Costello of Syracuse, inset below.

HOCKEY STICK RESCUE—Using a hockey stick, a rescuer hauls an ice victim from the water in a demonstration in Cleveland, Ohio. Victim is recommended by the Red Cross to lie prone, kick vigorously. Rescuer should stay as far from the danger area as possible.

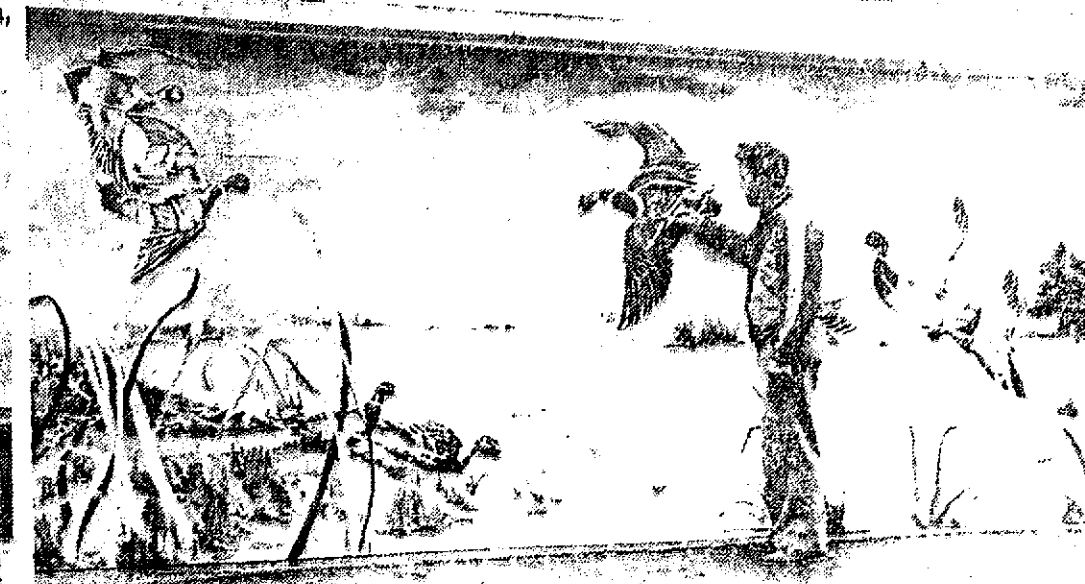

TRADEMARK—That "hurt" look by which millions identify William Bendix goes right along with him in his new TV vehicle, "Overland Trail." In the show, Bendix bosses a stagecoach line.

HIGH MAN—Lee Shaffer has been the big gun of the North Carolina basketball team, pending the return to action of Doug Moe.

TALK ABOUT TEEN-AGERS—Not even in San Francisco do the Beats go on wilder kicks than Fritz. The Vermillion, S.D., boxer's favorite frolic is inhaling auto exhaust until he gets lightheaded. Left, he inhales the fumes and, right, freshens up at a water fountain. More than once Fritz has passed out from the effects of this gambit but this hasn't abated his desire.

OVERHEAD CANVAS—LaVerne Bleifuss finishes up a full-color mural on his brother-in-law's garage door in Oconomowoc, Wis. The work depicts mallard ducks at a lake.

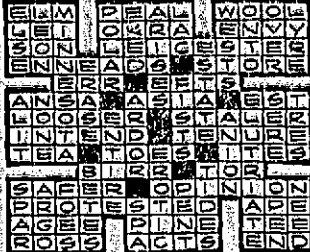

HEAVY SWING—World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson is just too much for little 3-year-old John Hardy, visiting High Point State Park, N.J. But Johnnie manages to coax a few drops into his mouth.

HIGH AND DRY—Seems like that old pump is just too much for little 3-year-old John Hardy, visiting High Point State Park, N.J. But Johnnie manages to coax a few drops into his mouth.

McClellan to Explain His Reason

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.) wants to explain his vote against a federal school aid bill to Arkansas' 14,000 classroom teachers.

McClellan says he opposed the measure because it might lead eventually to a compulsory end of segregation. He asked Miss Kathryn Shaddock of El Dorado, president of the Arkansas Department of Classroom Teachers for a full list of the teachers.

The senator said he wanted to read each of them a copy of his Senate remarks opposing the school aid measure.

McClellan said he might support a proposal to aid school construction but felt the current measure could bring an end to segregation. "Just one simple amendment," he said, "can be added, providing that no state or school district is eligible to receive the financial aid if it permits segregation."

Miss Shaddock had written that she was "shocked" at McClellan's opposition.

Commission to Meet in Tennessee

By W. JOYNES MACFARLAN

WASHINGTON — The Federal Commission on Civil Rights plans to hold its second conference on school integration problems March 21 and 22 at Gatlinburg, Tenn.

A spokesman said today the commission is interested in getting the best information on such things as:

- how grade-by-grade integration is working out where it is under way; developments in areas where integration has taken place since last year; how nonsegregated schools for children of military personnel are working out in some southern states which have no other school integration; and how pupil placement plans are being carried out.

School officials of southern and border states will be invited to participate. The meeting will be a follow up to the conference on education held last March by the commission at Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Matthew Cunningham, a product of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, was Little Rock's first physician, having built the second house in the community.

TIME TO FIX A FEW THINGS—Jack Paar, his wife Miriam and their dachshund Schnaaps get together in Paar's Bronxville, N.Y., home immediately after the late-hour TV star quit his show in a tiff with his network over censorship. Paar says he hasn't abandoned his career. But he'll take some time to work around his suburban home, a converted barn. "Maybe now I'll have time to fix all the things I want to fix," he said.

CHAPTER XXXI

I told him about my safe. How it had been a sort of gift to me by Madam, but how she always avoided giving me the combination. And I explained about my nocturnal intruder and how Lottie had come by the card with the combination written on it. And how we had opened the safe and found much money in it, which was added to, week by week, until it amounted to the sum at our feet in the carpetbag.

"So," Maw Wheelright said, "it was her put it there."

"More likely," Zach corrected, "that skeleton feller." He knocked out his pipe while Maw watched him alertly to see that he spilled no ashes on the floor. "But who did they steal it off?" he demanded.

"She — they didn't steal it," I told them. "It was borrowed from banks."

"I still say 'stole,'" insisted Zach. "no matter how it was comdrived."

Maw Wheelright peered down at the carpetbag of my feet with a wry expression.

"Two has been murdered because of this here," she said. "And death's abiding like a millstone over the heads of all that tampered with it this night." She paused and seemed to choke for breath. Zach Wheelright sat rigid, his huge hands gripped into fists.

But her voice returned, strong and commanding. "Zacharias Wheelright, my man, ye got a bounden duty. Ye got to stand a shield 'n' buckler betwixt them we love 'n' the wickedness that hovers over 'em."

The wind tore at Lizzie Ann as if to wrench her from her place in the basin, and the teapot sang on the stove. Maw Wheelright hummed as she set out cups and saucers and pungent ginger cookies.

Lottie dunked her cookie and said to Maw, "Would you rather we took the bag of money away?"

"It's best left here," she said. "When you go I'll hide it sure 'n' safe. . . . Good night, my darlin' Lizzie Ann, and may lovin' angels sit to the four corners of your bed."

So, leaving the dangerous money where it stood, we went out into the night.

A note from Madam came across the street for me while I was eating my breakfast. It requested me to call upon her before I went downtown to my office.

Madam, sitting behind her desk, smiled up at me in the most intimate and friendly way, and bade me good morning and asked me to seat myself.

"Maybe, Orrin," she said, "it's an impertinence to ask you to call on this matter — which is not legal at all. But I'm a most inquisitive woman."

I stared across the desk at her, so lovely, so autocratic, and my resolution ebbed away. It was absurd to think for an instant that this beautiful woman could have any connection, however remote, with crime.

"This long winter," she said, "I have amused myself. To pass away the time, I've been prying into this Cardiff Giant. Of course, in spite of Mr. Emerson or Dr. Holmes or all the scientists and preachers in the world, it is a hoax."

"Yes, Madam," I agreed.

"But a clever hoax, and amazingly successful. And I needed to know how it was perpetrated. It was easy enough to find out that Stubbs Newell was only a cat's paw, and that the man behind the deception was that cigar man, tawdryer in Binghamton."

"Gee, Hui!" I said.

"A satirist and ironic man," she said. "Now, I discovered that Mr. Hull had something huge and heavy shipped to him from Chicago. Weighty machinery to manufacture cigars, he claimed. But through a banking friend in his town I was able to determine that not a piece of new machinery has been added to his factory for years."

"Yes, Madam," I said, not pleased with myself.

"I want you, Orrin, to trace that heavy shipment back to Chicago for me," she smiled gaily at me. "Call it a whim. But I'm amply able to pay for having my whims indulged."

"Very well, Madam," I answered, and then she stood up graciously and extended her slender hand and bade me good morning.

When I reached my office, there stood outside my door the figure of a man so muffled in a heavy coat, upper, earmuffs and felt boots that I did not at once recognize him. It was not until he removed his cloth cap that I saw my visitor was Jethro Willis, the banker from Binghamton.

"Good morning to you, Mr. Applegate," he said, more politely than he ever had conducted himself toward me before.

"You are up and about early, Mr. Willis," I answered.

He unwound himself from his scarf, but retained his mittens as he sat down in the chair at the right of my desk.

"I hear tell," he said, "that you're a mighty smart young lawyer."

To this compliment I made no response, but waited.

"Bein's you're jest startin' out, I figured ye might be some cheaper'n what an older feller would be."

"If," I said, "you are looking for cheapness rather than ability, I suggest that you go elsewhere."

"Naow, naow, Mr. Applegate. Don't get hot up. I'm a businessman."

"Very well," I rejoined; "then come to business."

CHAPTER XXXII

"Madam Janeway's borrowed money from my bank," he said. "When folks owe me money, I calculate to get it back," he said viciously. "B'ne her lawyer, ye know how much Madam's borrowed off of me."

I neither admitted nor denied. "It's $100,000," he said. "Equal to the capital of my bank."

"You were pretty eager to lend it," I said. "You fawned on her like a hungry puppy. You've got your security."

"Yeah, that I got, and Dan'l Drew's name on her notes. But it's made me dangerous short of cash. And she don't make no payments on account. Money's terrible hard to get just to carry on business. And if anything was to happen — if for some reason she didn't pay up, I'd be bank-rupt."

"But," I said, "you've got your security."

He looked at me like a weasel thinking out of its burrow. "I got no security," he said, "all wound round with time 'n' sealed tight with sealing wax. And listed outside is the stocks and bonds that's inside. And Dan'l Drew's name's there. I wake up in the night 'n' ask myself: What if they haint there? What if the skulduggery?"

"Why don't you open the pack-ages and see?"

"I doesn't make no enemy of Dan'l Drew or his woman."

"Then a what," I asked, "do you propose?"

"Kind of contrived to come see you," he said in a sort of whimpering. "To see if I couldn't get you to make her pay me back may be at least 25 or 30 thousand. That would keep me again." He turned his big head slowly. "Oh, not for nothing," I calculate to pay ye back."

"Mr. Willis," I said, "I want no truck with you whatever."

He glared at me like a cornered rat.

"Then in the," he said, "you've got to respect it to the last day of your lives. I'm capable of makin' an end, I be, and willin' to do so."

I strode past him and jerked the door open. A man stood there in the hallway, and his position in the doorway was a picture of a man's face straightened with a jerk and presented the gaunt face and hollowed eyes of Oscar. Madam Janeway's butler. He stood aside for Jethro Willis to pass, and then turned and looked after his uncle as he disappeared down the stairway.

"What," I demanded, "are you doing here?"

"A man sends from Madam Janeway," he said. "A matter she for a man so muffled in a heavy coat, upper, earmuffs and felt turned envelope.

"Were you also," I asked, "required to apply your ear to my door?"

"There was no need," he said. "Your voices were loud."

With that, he turned on his heel and walked away.

The message was of no importance. It merely informed me of incidental details of the carting of George Hull's crate of machinery from the city of Chicago eastward and of the breaking down of the wagon that carried it.

Perhaps my obligation as Madam's attorney was to acquaint her with what had passed between Jethro Willis and me. But I was sure it was information she would have from Oscar.

I had slight appetite for supper. I could not even bring myself to cross over to Lottie's house and share my fears with her. I thought I would be unable to sleep, but I did drop off fitfully to awaken at an unpleasantly early hour. I waited for breakfast time, and then walked reluctantly to my office. I unlocked and opened my door, and then stopped dead still just over the threshold. The shock had almost a physical impact. For the massive door of my safe stood open, exposing its empty interior!

During the night, an intruder — no doubt it was Oscar — had invaded my office and opened the safe with the intention either to deposit more cash in it or to remove the sum approaching a million dollars that had been secreted there. And discovered that it had vanished.

I heard heavy feet pounding the floor of the hallway and my door was kicked open violently. Oscar stood there, bending forward from the waist, and flexing his strong fingers. "Where is it?" he demanded and took a step toward me.

Fate of Two Candidates Known Soon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fate of Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) on the Wisconsin battleground may be affected soon by two decisions.

The decisions will be made by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who conceded sure victory in his question of the Republican nomination and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) conceded little chance in his race for the Democratic nomination.

It was learned in Washington Sunday that Nixon probably would decide to let Republican leaders enter his name in Wisconsin's April 5 primary.

If he enters the primary, party officials would try to roll up an impressive vote for the unopposed vice president. They would pressure Republicans to mark the GOP ballot instead of crossing over to vote in the more interesting Democratic contest.

This would be good news for Humphrey, who has said he fears that Wisconsin Republicans, spurred on by Minnesota Republicans, will vote against him in the Democratic contest. Their motive: to give him a black eye while his nearby Minnesota constituents are watching.

The second decision also involves the Wisconsin primary. Sen. Morse, on a television show Sunday, said he would decide within a few days whether to enter the primary.

"At the present time I am having a little poll taken in Wisconsin," Morse said, "and if I become convinced that I can get a great many progressive Republicans to vote for me, I may go in."

Oscar stood midway between my desk and the door. At his right was the safe with its open door and bare interior. His arms were extraordinarily long and the hands that hung from bony wrists were larger than a man's hands should be, with fingers tense and bent like talons. It was clear to me that he had trespassed upon my office the night before.

"Where," I countered, "is what?"

"Don't dilly-dally," he said. "The safe is open and its contents gone. Nobody could have rifled it but you."

"Rifled it of what?" I asked, wasting time and postponing the moment of action. "How did I open the door? Madam Janeway never gave me the combination."

"Don't hoggle-hoggle with me," Oscar said harshly. "Where is that money? Tell me before I choke it out of you!"

I had to put on a bold front; mainly, I suppose, to hold fast to my self-respect. I sneered at him. "Haven't you done enough throatling?" I asked. "Your score is two. It would be dangerous to make it three."

His wide slash of a mouth became a lipless line, but he did not take another step toward me.

If he decided against entering the primary, the Oregon senator continued, he would support Humphrey.

Morse also said he would enter Maryland's May 17 primary against Kennedy.

"I don't think Senator Kennedy should have it on a platter," Morse explained.

So far, only Kennedy has filed in the contest for Maryland's 24 convention votes.

California's 31 votes, apparently seized up by Gov. Edmund G. Brown as a favorite son candidate attracted Kennedy, Humphrey, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) to Fresno during the weekend for the California Democratic Council convention.

The name of an unannounced and absent candidate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), also attracted attention. But he and Nixon was booed when Gov. Brown mentioned them in his cynote address. The governor, at a news conference later, apologized for the booing.

Symington, who has hammered away at the Eisenhower administration on the question of defense, took issue with a convention resolution which urged that the United States disavow by itself if the Geneva negotiations with the Soviet Union fail.

If that happened, Symington said, the United States would be at the mercy of the U.S.R.

State Rocket Group Fails in Launching

REDFIELD, Ark. (AP)—The Arkansas Amateur Rocket Society failed in an attempt to launch an 84-inch rocket from its pad here yesterday.

But what is more distressing to the young rocketeers than the failure is that its camera crew got no pictures of the rocket as it tried to blast off.

"We didn't get a shot," said Carl E. Brooks, one of the sponsors of the society. "Now everyone will argue until kingdom come and no one ever will know what caused the failure."

The verbal post-mortem which followed the attempt showed Brooks was right.

The society's members range in age from 16 to 19. They have been firing rockets for the past three years.

The record of the young rocketeers is about 60 per cent successful firings.

Newsman Succumbs

NEW YORK (AP) — Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. since 1939, will retire July 31. He then will be 65 years old.

Stanford Smith, assistant to the general manager, will succeed him.
